SYNOPSIS

My Weird Prompts just crossed 6,000 episodes — and the human behind it, Daniel Rosehill, is stepping out from behind the pipeline to talk about how it actually runs. From the TTS struggles that nearly derailed the whole thing to the shift to DeepSeek 4.1 Flash as the script agent, this is a rare look at the machinery and the person operating it. It's also a reflection on what it means when a daily AI-generated podcast quietly turns into a journal, and why some stories — like an apartment eviction in Jerusalem — keep resurfacing.
